To the Golfing Fraternity:

It is once more our privilege to present for your approval the BURKE line of golfer's necessities. To have served you in this way so many years has been a pleasure to us. The appreciation with which you have received our efforts from time to time is our chief source of pride. We are confident that our offering for the season of 1930 will serve to maintain and strengthen the pleasant association which we have had with you in past seasons.

To continue to serve you satisfactorily year after year makes it necessary that the services and values which you receive from us shall be such as to stand above all criticism.

Accordingly we make certain that BURKE products are honestly built and honestly designed. We keep an open mind at all times to improvements in style or design, and whenever possible we lead in the introduction of new elements in construction.

In serving you we try to bear in mind that you are golfers and gentlemen, and that we must carry on our service with a knowledge of and respect for the rules of the game. Working golf is like playing golf—except that it is more difficult.

We thank you for this opportunity to present the BURKE line for 1930.

Sincerely yours,
THE BURKE GOLF COMPANY,
L. M. Grandall
President.

Registered Sets

FOR 1930 BURKE offers an extensive range of registered playing sets. The weight, length, and other physical properties of registered set clubs are recorded so that duplicates may be promptly secured at any time by advising us the brand or model—name or number of club—and the register number of the set.

The several registered club sets which we offer are listed below. In iron clubs the LONG BURKE Stainless irons are registered. We furnish complete registered playing sets of woods and irons when specified. A 6 or 9 club set of LONG BURKE irons may be combined with any of the wood club sets wanted to complete a registered outfit.

Registered Wood Club Sets

Aristo Burke	Model F-80

Registered wood clubs may be had in sets of two or three. LONG BURKE registered irons may be had in sets of six or nine.

Full descriptive details of these various items may be found on the following pages.

Long Burke Graduated Irons

LONG BURKE Graduated Irons are available in registered sets of six or nine. The best that our manufacturing facilities can offer is built into this 1930 leader. Details of construction follow:

Shafts are specially selected and tested. True Temper or hickory will be furnished as required. True Temper shafts have a lustrous, durable chromium finish. Hickory shafts are stained and hand polished. Grips are best quality black calf, processed specially to give them satisfactory tack and feel. Every care is taken to see that lofts, lies, and weights of the heads are properly graduated. Models are designed so that the blade appears sturdy and compact. They appear a bit shorter than the general run of iron heads, but the hitting surface of the blade is not lessened. The design makes it possible to secure concentration of weight in the blade. It adds a bit of extra power and gives a solid feel to the shot. The heads are made of a special stainless steel—extremely dense but not extremely hard.

Straight line scoring is used on the faces of the blades. End lines are outlined in black adding distinction to the appearance of the blade and emphasizing the impact surface. Heads are highly buffed and the stampings are filled with gold bronze. The sets are packed in attractive boxes.

LONG BURKE Registered sets include the following clubs. Men's or ladies' weights may be had.

TRUE TEMPER

IN the selection of a steel shaft of a quality consistent with the standard set for BURKE products, we have found it advisable to standardize on the True Temper shaft. Judging from laboratory tests and playing experience, it is, in our opinion, the best steel shaft available. It is used throughout in BURKE steel shafted golf clubs.

Two standard types of finishes are used. A special chromium process is used on shafts appearing in our higher quality numbers. This finish is unusually lustrous and durable. In addition, it is thoroughly rust proof. On our popular priced items, we use a jet black rust proof finish. Finishes other than these are to be had on special orders only.

Four different models or patterns of shafts are used.

Model TWS, a new design and featured for the first time by BURKE, is the standard equipment for men's wood clubs. This model has been designed to give added strength and better balance to wood clubs of regular construction. It is slightly whippier than former patterns used and will benefit the game of at least 90% of the present day golfers.

Model TTW is a stiffer shaft for wood clubs. It is used only on special orders.

Model TTL is a shaft designed especially for use in ladies' wood clubs.

Model TTI is the standard model used in the construction of iron clubs.
